Public Domain Anthony Antonellis

18/01/2013 - 15/02/2013

Domain Gallery is pleased to present Public Domain, a solo exhibition by american artist Anthony Antonellis curated by Manuel Fernández.

Anthony Antonellis is a visual artist who is known primarily for his work online, but his practice is not limited to virtual space. His process copy-pastes between analog and digital states, exploring the simultaneity of real and virtual objects.

His recent works have experimented in short animation, installations, painting, and internet based art. Several of his pieces have been curated into the Rhizome ArtBase at the New Museum (New York). His work has been included in recent exhibitions at Jacob's Island (London), Eyebeam (New York), Glitch Festival (Chicago/Amsterdam), and at online galleries including bubblebyte.org and SPAMM.fr.

Antonellis studied at Savannah College of Art and Design, BFA in painting, and Bauhaus-University Weimar, MFA in new artistic strategies. He is currently an adjunct professor at Bridgewater State University.

About the work: "I bought a CD on eBay advertised to contain over 30,000 public domain animated gifs. Costing £5 after shipping, it was my largest gif purchase to date. Public Domain is a salon-style exhibition of these gifs. With each refresh, a framed selection of 300 random images is pulled from the archive".
